Relationships and sex education (RSE) Policy

Date reviewed	May 2024
Approved by Governors	June 2024
Date of next review	May 2027

1. Introduction

At St Benedict's we aim to nurture the whole person in their growth towards God, along their own journey of faith. Sexuality is an integral part of human nature, central to such growth. We regard the teaching of Jesus Christ and His Church as fundamental to the teaching and understanding of relationships and sex education. Any teaching about love and sexual relationships in a Catholic school must be rooted in the Catholic Church's teaching about what it is to be truly human in Christ, what it means to live well in relationship with others and be presented within a positive framework of Christian virtue.

Parents and carers have responsibility as primary educators of their children to prepare them for the challenges and responsibilities that sexual maturity brings. However, the college sees its role as integral in supporting our whole community, both young people and parents and carers in the challenges that relationships and sexual maturity bring in the modern world. We respond to the needs of the students to enable them to make responsible and well-informed decisions as young people.

2. Overview

As a Catholic community we believe that relationship and sex education (RSE) is integral to the lifelong learning process and the belief that we have been uniquely created in the image and likeness of God. As such, all people have special value and worth. RSE is firmly rooted in the college's personal, social and health education programme, through religious education (RE) and as part of the statutory national curriculum for science.

Parents and carers are responsible for educating their children in sexuality and preparing them to grow in respect for themselves and others. The role of the college is to support parents and carers in this endeavour. The college also responds to the needs of the students to enable them to make responsible and well-informed decisions as young people. Every member of staff who delivers RSE, either as a form tutor delivering the PSHE education programme, or as a subject teacher, understands that they are part of a holistic and integrated programme across the curriculum enshrining core pedagogy, ensuring that the subject is differentiated, progressive and balanced in its approach. (please see the appendix).

3. Principles

Relationships and sex education should:

- be in the context of marriage and loving family life
- be a natural part of the overall teaching programme integrated into the student's learning experience
- give students the knowledge and values appropriate to their stage of development
- conform in all respects to the teachings of the Catholic Church
- create an environment for personal growth so that each student develops positive attitudes and is enabled to make sound moral judgements
- meet the statutory guidance laid down by the DfE.

4. Aims

- To develop well informed and well-adjusted young people, prepared for their adult roles
- to enable the students to develop a mature set of values about personal relationships, together with an appreciation of sexual relationships within marriage in accordance with the teaching of the church
- to help our students to value themselves, body and soul, as their own unique and infinitely valuable person in the image and likeness of God
- To foster healthy and respectful peer to peer communication and behaviour and challenge perceived limits on pupils based on stereotypical representations of gender or any other characteristic
- to enable students to understand and question some of the values of the modern world with regard to human sexuality
- To ensure students are aware that sexual violence and harassment are unacceptable and how to seek support should they need it
- to help our students to understand and control their own emotions and feelings and to make informed decisions in the light of the teaching of the Catholic church

- to provide our students with an understanding of the process of human reproduction in the context of loving relationships
- to prepare our students for a responsible life as adults and possibly parents of the future
- to enable students to appreciate the importance of love in human relationships; to understand different forms of love and the way in which it is expressed in marriage and before marriage, in other relationships and in vocations to the priesthood and religious life
- to help our students develop an understanding of the pressures of personal relationships and family life and compassion for those who do not reach these ideals

5. Withdrawal

Parents have the right to withdraw their children from all or part of sex education provided at school except for those parts included in the statutory national curriculum. Relationships and health education remain statutory. If parents/carers wish their child to be withdrawn from sex education lessons, they should discuss this with the Principal.

6. Policy links

The RSE policy has clear links to other college policies aimed at promoting students' spiritual, moral, social and cultural development, inclusion, differentiated learning and opportunities for assessment for learning including the following:

- Safeguarding
- Child protection policy
- Behaviour for learning policy
- Anti-bullying policy

- Acceptable use policy for ICT including safe internet use

7. Consultation and review date

This policy will be reviewed every three years. Consultation with all stakeholders is part of the development and ongoing review of this policy.

APPENDIX

Curriculum Aims

- Created and loved by God (this explores the individual) The Christian imperative to love self, made in the image and likeness of God, shows an understanding of the importance of valuing and understanding oneself as the basis for personal relationships.
- Created to love others (this explores an individual's relationships with others) God is love. We are created out of love and for love. The command to love is the basis of all Christian morality.
- Created to live in community local, national & global (this explores the individual's relationships with the wider world) Human beings are relational by nature and live in the wider community. Through our exchange with others, our mutual service and through dialogue, we attempt to proclaim and extend the Kingdom of God for the good of individuals and the good of society.
